

A further look at library training

Wellington Branch has this year held two very successful study meetings on training for librarianship, dealing with both non-graduate and graduate training. It now seems that a further look at library training will be held under the auspices of the Library School next year. In a letter received by the Standing Executive Committee at its June meeting acknowledging receipt of the report on library training prepared by the University and Research Section last year, the Director of the Library School indicated the possibility of a Library School seminar on training, similar to the seminar on free and rental service during 1960, being organised in 1963.

CORRESPONDENCE

Sir,

I am advised by M. Léonce Jore (formerly Governor of New Caledonia, and author of several books on the Pacific) that he and Lt. Col. Cottez have placed a quantity of documents concerning Baron Charles de Thierry in the Archives de la France d'Outre-Mer, Paris. These are now available for research, but the usual acknowledgments are required.

The Turnbull is taking steps to secure microfilm copies of this material, and will make it known when it comes to hand.

Sir,

The New Zealand Short-Title Catalogue of English Books Printed before 1700 is now in an advanced stage of preparation. Any libraries that acquire books of this period or discover in their own stocks books that have been overlooked should report these to Dr T. H. Hill, Alexander Turnbull Library, Box 8016, Wellington, who will produce a supplement when sufficient material has accumulated.
